

Biography

Wilfried Debus
Chief Corporate Development Officer

Wilfried Debus is Chief Corporate Development Officer at DOMO, leading the company's strategic development which aims to futureproof the organization. Wilfried joined DOMO in July 2020.

Sustainable development is a key part of his responsibilities, ensuring sustainability is fully embedded and at the core of DOMO's strategy. He is also accountable for the transformation program of the Group, Wilfried oversees the execution and prioritization of the critical projects associated with the Group's strategy and sustainability ambitions.

Wilfried is a member of DOMO's Executive Committee.

Wilfried has a strong professional industrial background acquired in the areas of strategy, mergers & acquisition and business management across a wide range of industries such as automotive, electronics, mining and telecoms, among others. Prior to joining DOMO, he held various senior management roles at Solvay Group where he served as Group Strategy Executive Vice-President until 2021. From 2007 to 2014, he held numerous leadership positions at IMERYYS, a multinational specializing in the production and processing of industrial minerals.

In these roles, Wilfried was a driving force behind global business units' strategic roadmaps. His responsibilities involved leading negotiations with major partners on corporate developments. Based on his experience of defining strategy and growth ambitions, he is a strong believer in team leadership, strategic thinking and change management as defining the path to success.

Wilfried holds a Master of Science Degree from École National Supérieure des Télécoms de Paris.